CUBAN ARMY DEMANDS MACHADO RESIGNATION

THE WINGFIELD SCULLS

Won in Record Time Yesterday

London, Aug. 11.
The annual race for the Wingfield Sculls was won this afternoon over the Thomas Championship Putney to Mortlake course, by L. F. Southwood, of the Thames Rowing Club, in the record time of 21 minutes 11 seconds.—British Wireless.

AIR CRASH IN SPAIN

ITALIAN CHIEF OF STAFF

SEVEN SERIOUSLY INJURED

Madrid, Aug. 11.
The Chief of the Italian Air Staff, General Julio Valle, was seriously injured to-day when his seaplane crashed in the sea near Valencia.

General Valle was on his way to Barcelona from Lisbon where he had flown to greet his colleague, General Balbo, on his return to Europe.

After attending a reception given by the Portuguese Government in honour of General Balbo, General Julio Valle commenced his return flight to Italy.

The plane crashed in the sea near Valencia, but fortunately the mishap was observed and assistance was swiftly forthcoming.

Six others aboard the machine were rushed to hospital with General Valle.—Reuter.

NEW COAL DUMP PROTEST

A BAMBOO HOARDING GOING UP

Sir,—Government has replied, by adding insult to injury.

An unsightly bamboo hoarding is now in the course of erection between the Coal Dump and the Railway. The hoarding cannot even palliate the dust nuisance and will be even more offensive than the coal itself. If I am right Government considers the financial loss to the revenue a matter of no moment.

I understand the beautiful new Bungalow at Fanling is nearing completion and a magnificent drive is being planned.

If Kowloon is to be ruined because in 20, 30, 40, 50 years time it may be like Cardiff, (The rest is better unsaid but can be understood.)

ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT

HSIUNG SHIH-HUT'S ESCAPE

Shanghai, Aug. 12.
A sensational attempt by one of his own body-guards on the life of the Chairman of the Kiangsi Provincial Government and former Garrison commander of Shanghai and Woosung, Gen. Hsiung Shih-hut, was made at Kiukiang according to foreign messages from Nanchang, says a foreign newspaper report here.

The body-guard was seized on the spot when his first bullet missed its intended billet. It is believed to have

DE VALERA BANS PARADE

O'DUFFY IN A DEFIANT MOOD

CLASH WITH I.R.A. IMMINENT

DUBLIN, AUG. 12.
A CLASH OF THE BLUE SHIRTS WITH THE IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY NOW APPEARS TO BE INEVITABLE TO-MORROW (SUNDAY) UNLESS GENERAL O'DUFFY RECONSIDERS HIS DECISION TO HOLD THE FASCIST PARADE IN DEFIANCE OF MR. DE VALERA'S BAN.

A proclamation which was issued by Mr. De Valera in the early hours of this morning prohibits the holding of the Blue Shirt parade at the time or place at which it is proposed to be held or at any other place within a day before or three days after.

Troops are being held in readiness and armoured cars have already been imported into Dublin.

Dublin, Aug. 12.
An official decree was issued by the Free State Government shortly before one o'clock this morning, banning the Blue Shirt parade arranged to take place in Dublin to-morrow.

No-one is certain of the action likely to be taken by General O'Duffy, the head of the organization, but it is generally believed that he will defy Mr. De Valera.

There is every indication that the country is on the eve of grave occurrences and it is gravel, to be feared that Dublin is likely to pass through a day of terror on Sunday.

RUMOUR DENIED.

Rumours are in circulation that large quantities of arms have been smuggled into Ireland for the Blue Shirts, but General O'Duffy declares that his men are unarmed and they will be equipped with walking sticks only during the parade.

The aim of the Blue Shirt movement is to force Mr. de Valera to hold further elections, which he has refused to do. Threats of violence have been made and de Valera has surrounded himself with an armed bodyguard of fifty men. Meanwhile, Dublin is waiting for the next move in an atmosphere of tense expectancy.—Reuter.

O'DUFFY DEFIANT.

Later.
General O'Duffy will hold the parade.

His determination to do so, at the moment at all events, is shown by the order which he has issued to National Guard officers impressing all ranks with the necessity for continuing the march. He declares that the ranks of the Blue Shirts are not to be broken except at the direct order of a responsible officer.

General O'Duffy emphasises that all men will be unarmed.

OFFICIAL STEPS.

Armoured cars and extra police are being rushed into Dublin and arrangements are being made to bring in strong reinforcements from Curragh if it proves necessary.—Reuter.

PROGRAMME FOR BRITANNIA

RACING ON SOUTH COAST

London, Aug. 11.
The King's yacht, Britannia, which was successful in several races during Cowes Week, left to-day for Weymouth where she will resume racing to-morrow. Later she will compete at regatta at Paimpton, Babbacombe.

GERMAN SHIPPING ORDER

Discrimination Against Foreign Vessels

London, Aug. 11.
Further information is awaited regarding the position of foreign shipping companies in Germany in the light of the German foreign exchange control department's new order.

Berlin press reports state that the order will be rigidly interpreted and that in consequence passages by a foreign vessel would, in future, be freely booked to Germans only up to the sum of 200 marks which is the maximum amount which may be exported without express authorisation.

It is added that such authorisation would be withheld unless the applicant showed good reason for travelling by a foreign vessel.

The order also applies to foreigners, who may book passages in a foreign vessel only if they import money for fares.

The possibility of representations being made by the British Government under the Anglo-German Commercial Treaty of 1924 if these discriminatory measures are put into effect is discussed by the newspapers but the matter has not yet been raised officially and hopes are entertained that negotiations between the shipping companies may result in a modification of the order.—British Wireless.

GREEK CLAIM ON LEAGUE

REDUCED INTEREST ON LOANS

London, Aug. 11.
In regard to the Greek Government proposal that the interest payable on League loans to Greece should be reduced, it is pointed out that this matter is under discussion between the Greek Government on the one hand and the League loans committee and the Council of Foreign Bondholders on the other.—British Wireless.

STOP PRESS

Gen. O'Duffy has called off the Blue Shirt parade on Sunday in defiance of Mr. De Valera's ban.

DAY OF SENSATION

FIRST BATTALION IN REVOLT

GENERAL UNDER ARREST

New York, Aug. 11.
The climax in the Cuban crisis is believed to have reached, but in the maze of sensational reports of a succession of developments, it is difficult to discover the true situation.

Troops armed with machine-guns surrounded the Presidential Palace this afternoon following reports that the mob intended to launch an attack. All streets in the neighbourhood were cleared.

Soon afterwards, it was reported that the First Battalion of the Havana Garrison had revolted. The report was not confirmed by reliable sources, but it was understood that the battalion had promised General Herrera, the chief of Staff to remain passive for the time being.

TROOPS DEMAND.
President Machado was reported as having fled to the Columbia Military Station near Havana. Later.

Government troops demanding the immediate resignation of President Machado, according to a director of the newspaper Diario de la Marina. He stated that he had been informed by a high Army source.

A message from Santa Clara, Cuba, attributes to army officers a statement that President Machado has tendered his resignation.

CELEBRATIONS.

Although this report has not been confirmed by other quarters, the townspeople are already celebrating and that officers themselves are holding a banquet this evening at a barracks celebration.

Later.
According to latest information, President Machado made a flying visit to the Columbia Camp in a car bristling with machine-guns.

FACES TROOPS.

He addressed the mutinous troops and then drove back at a furious pace to the Palace.

It is reported that the insurgent leaders have demanded of Herrera that he arrange for the President's retirement within forty-eight hours.

Brig. General Eduardo Dolores is a prisoner in the Castillo de la Fuerza, according to a further report.

Strict censorship is being exercised over all telephone calls to the interior.

Later.
The army has issued an ultimatum to Machado requesting his resignation before noon on Saturday.—Reuter.

New York, Aug. 11.
While President Roosevelt is awaiting a reply to his demand for the cessation of political warfare in Cuba, U.S. proposals for a "new deal" for the island are reported to be reaching completion.

It is understood that this includes a sweeping revision of Cuba's internal and external debt.

STABILISATION OF SILVER

URGED ON BEHALF OF LANCASHIRE

London, Aug. 11.
The Manchester edition of the Financial Times to-day states that it is convinced that a stabilised silver currency would be an advantage to the Lancashire cotton industry with connections in countries with a silver currency. It is pointed out that the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners has further approached the Government.

ANOTHER RADIO ATTACK ON AUSTRIA

MUNICH STATION KEEPS IT UP

PROBLEMS FOR POWERS

London, Aug. 11.
Official complaisance following the virulent Habicht attack upon Dr. Dollfuss, the Austrian Chancellor, by wireless broadcast from Munich, has been rudely disturbed.

The British Government did not look upon this breach of promise seriously, expressing the belief that the broadcast was delivered owing to the fact that Herr Hitler's instructions had not reached Munich in time to stop the further attack upon Austria.

To-night, however, a further bitter broadcast attack upon Dr. Dollfuss was delivered from the Munich station.

The speaker on this occasion was the former Vienna correspondent of the Muencher Zeitung, named Hoenic. He was recently expelled from Austria by the Dollfuss Government.

HOENIG'S ATTACK.

The present political tension in Austria cannot last, declared Hoenic in his broadcast attack on Dr. Dollfuss.

He added that events would lead to an explosion unless the Nazis were soon granted the rights to which they had a just claim.

Hoenic virulently attacked Dollfuss and declared that the Chancellor's Government was not the patriotic institution that it pretended to be.

NEXT STEP?

The Foreign Office is so far silent regarding this latest development. The next step is being awaited with close interest. It is obvious that the same excuse cannot be advanced for Hoenic as was used to modify the seriousness of the Habicht address.—Reuter.

TREASURY BILLS TENDERS

London, Aug. 11.
The applications for to-day's tenders for £40,000,000 Treasury bills totalled £65,125,000. The amount allotted in bills at three months was £40,000,000. The average rate per cent. of tenders accepted was 5/6.10d. per cent. as compared with 5/4.95d. per cent. last week.—British Wireless.

detained by the Hongkong police for further investigation.

BUCKET DISCOVERY.

The names of the principals are not included in the information in the possession of the police.

The bucket discovered by the police which contained three revolvers, fully loaded, in a secret compartment built into the bottom of the vessel, was buried in a vegetable patch not within 100 yards as reported previously of a hut occupied by a number of the suspects but at a distance of over a mile on the hillside above Saiwanho.

Information in the possession of the police referred to two other similar contrivances brought to the Colony but despite an extensive search they have so far not been found, in consequence of which shipping companies and ships officers have been requested to keep a careful lookout for these and other devices for concealing arms.

Obviously the local police operations have had the effect of frustrating a piratical design directed against shipping outward bound from the Colony. As indicated, the operations between the three parties

HEAT WAVE ENDS IN BRITAIN

JAPANESE NAVAL MANOEUVRES

FLEET "BATTLES" WITH AIR ARM

Tokyo, Aug. 10.

The grand scale Japanese naval and air manoeuvres which have been proceeding since yesterday morning, over an area sweeping from the Kuriles to Formosa, including the Mandate and Bonin Islands under Admirals Suetsugu (offensive) and Kobayashi (defensive) were joined to-day by 400,000 units of the military forces.

The manoeuvres will draw to a conclusion to-morrow morning at six o'clock.

This morning the manoeuvres were carried out during steady rain but the discipline and keenness of the participants were not the least daunted.

It was a great day as warships of the First, Second and Third Battle Fleets were seen in action, resisting sham attacks from the air.

Anti-aircraft were "in action" on the warships in tackling the aircraft which "bombardeed" them from an altitude of 5,000 metres.

Smoke screens were utilised during the aerial manoeuvres in an effective and impressive manner.

Members of the Royal Family watched the military co-operation.

LESS BRITISH ANTAGONISM

CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE PRISONERS NOW 6,915

London, Aug. 11.
The official figures published at Simla show that the number of persons in prison for civil disobedience activities at the end of June was 6,915 representing a reduction of 75 per cent. compared with the total at the end of June 1932.

Owing to the expiry of sentences or because detention was no longer considered necessary, about half of the political prisoners in the North West Frontier Province have been released since the end of June.—British Wireless.

KOREA TYPHOON TOLL

ANTISEPTIC LIQUID

Preferred by doctors.

KEEPS ARMPITS DRY, ODORLESS

Doctors and nurses endorse Nonspi, the safe, mild, efficient deodorant. Today over a million women rely on Nonspi to prevent the embarrassment of unpleasant underarm odor and to save clothes from ruinous perspiration stains.

Nonspi is safe. It merely diverts the moisture which regularly accumulates under the arm to parts of the body where better evaporation takes place. There can be no harmful results.

Nonspi contains a special ingredient not used in any other deodorant. This increases its safety and efficiency and prevents irritation of the tender underarm skin.

For applying Nonspi use cotton. Laboratory tests, conducted for over a year, prove cotton the most sanitary means of application yet devised.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

WATER-PROOFED LINENS FOR SPORT

Your Game May Be "All Wet"—But You Needn't Be!

By Joan Savoy

Everybody knows some cheerful soul who is merry enough to go about singing in the rain.

Well, there are new sports things on the market these days that allow you not only to sing in the rain but to play golf or tramp about in the rain without getting to look like a drowned rat.

They are made of water-proofed linen. Not only is it designed to shed linen like the proverbial duck's back but it doesn't spot, which is a blessing.

Of course you don't need to reserve costumes of this type just for rain. They are less crushable than ordinary linen so, of course, they are a boon to the shopper or office worker who has a way of sitting wrinkles in everything, in summer time.

If you've gone in for white there is a chic white three-quarters coat that is particularly good for golfing because it isn't the kind of swaggy model that might get into the way of your strokes. It has big-topped sleeves, is belted, but fits the body neatly so it doesn't interfere with action. It buttons with a single black button at the top, in case you want to wear it over black.

Worn over a black dress, with a white hat, and black and white shoes, you can face sun or rain with equal poise and the sustaining certainty that your costume will stand up. A black golf or tennis dress is made of the same water-proofed linen. It has the summer's suntan back line, is sleeveless, belted neatly and has a new touch of white buttons right up the back from hemline to neckline.

YOUR CHILDREN

Interruptions and Short Tempers

By Olive Roberts Barton

When you have bid a little lam in apendable, doubled and redoubled, and you are trying to remember if the east hand discarded a diamond or a heart, upon which the contract depends, and at the very height of your engrossment some one comes in and you have to get up and shake hands and talk about the weather and explain that your aunt is much better—

What happens! Your mind gropes wildly to catch the lost train of thought. You were creating, out-witting, using every iota of effort in you to produce what you said you would. And now it is gone! The mind deeply engrossed, your interest at the height of its resources, every nerve in you turned to accomplish a purpose—all are suddenly shocked into coma and rage, disgust or some equally unpleasant emotion takes the place of thought.

We Play the Hand Over

Such a reaction as headache, nausea, or some other physical symptom results in some people, especially nervous ones. I am not nervous except in two ways. Interruption invariably leaves me indignant and violent. Interruption often gives me a headache.

But to go back to the game, if you play bridge, and anything happens to frustrate you in a constructive plan to work out, isn't it a common experience to go back when you are in bed, and play that hand over again in your mind the way it should have been done? The mind gropes for the satisfaction of an impulse carried through to a complete finish, and trying to overcome its own disappointment and interrupted effort.

All this is a long dissertation on bridge. But I find that many grown-ups fail to grasp certain points in child development unless a problem of their own is brought home to them.

When a child is doing something he should not be interrupted every few minutes to do something else.

Interruption Discouraging
This needs qualifying. I do not mean that when Mary is jumping rope, she may not be stopped to run an errand, or that Jack reading a book can't be called to answer the door. In the one case, Mary has no definite plan to be carried out, no purpose to be frustrated, and Jack by reading is concentrating on attention but mark the difference—not creative attention.

It is when a child is working things out with a plan just as you were in the bridge game, that interruption isn't a good thing.

Of course these things happen. Neither child nor adult can go through life without being interrupted. But I think if parents understand that these breaks in thought, happening too often, lead to a short impatient temper, it may help them to put their finger on the cause.

The intense child, the creative child, is apt to be nervous anyway. It is best to let him finish what he has begun if possible.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Go Right After Beauty This Summer

By Alicia Hart.

Whether you're lucky enough to get away or not this summer, make it as much a vacation time as possible!

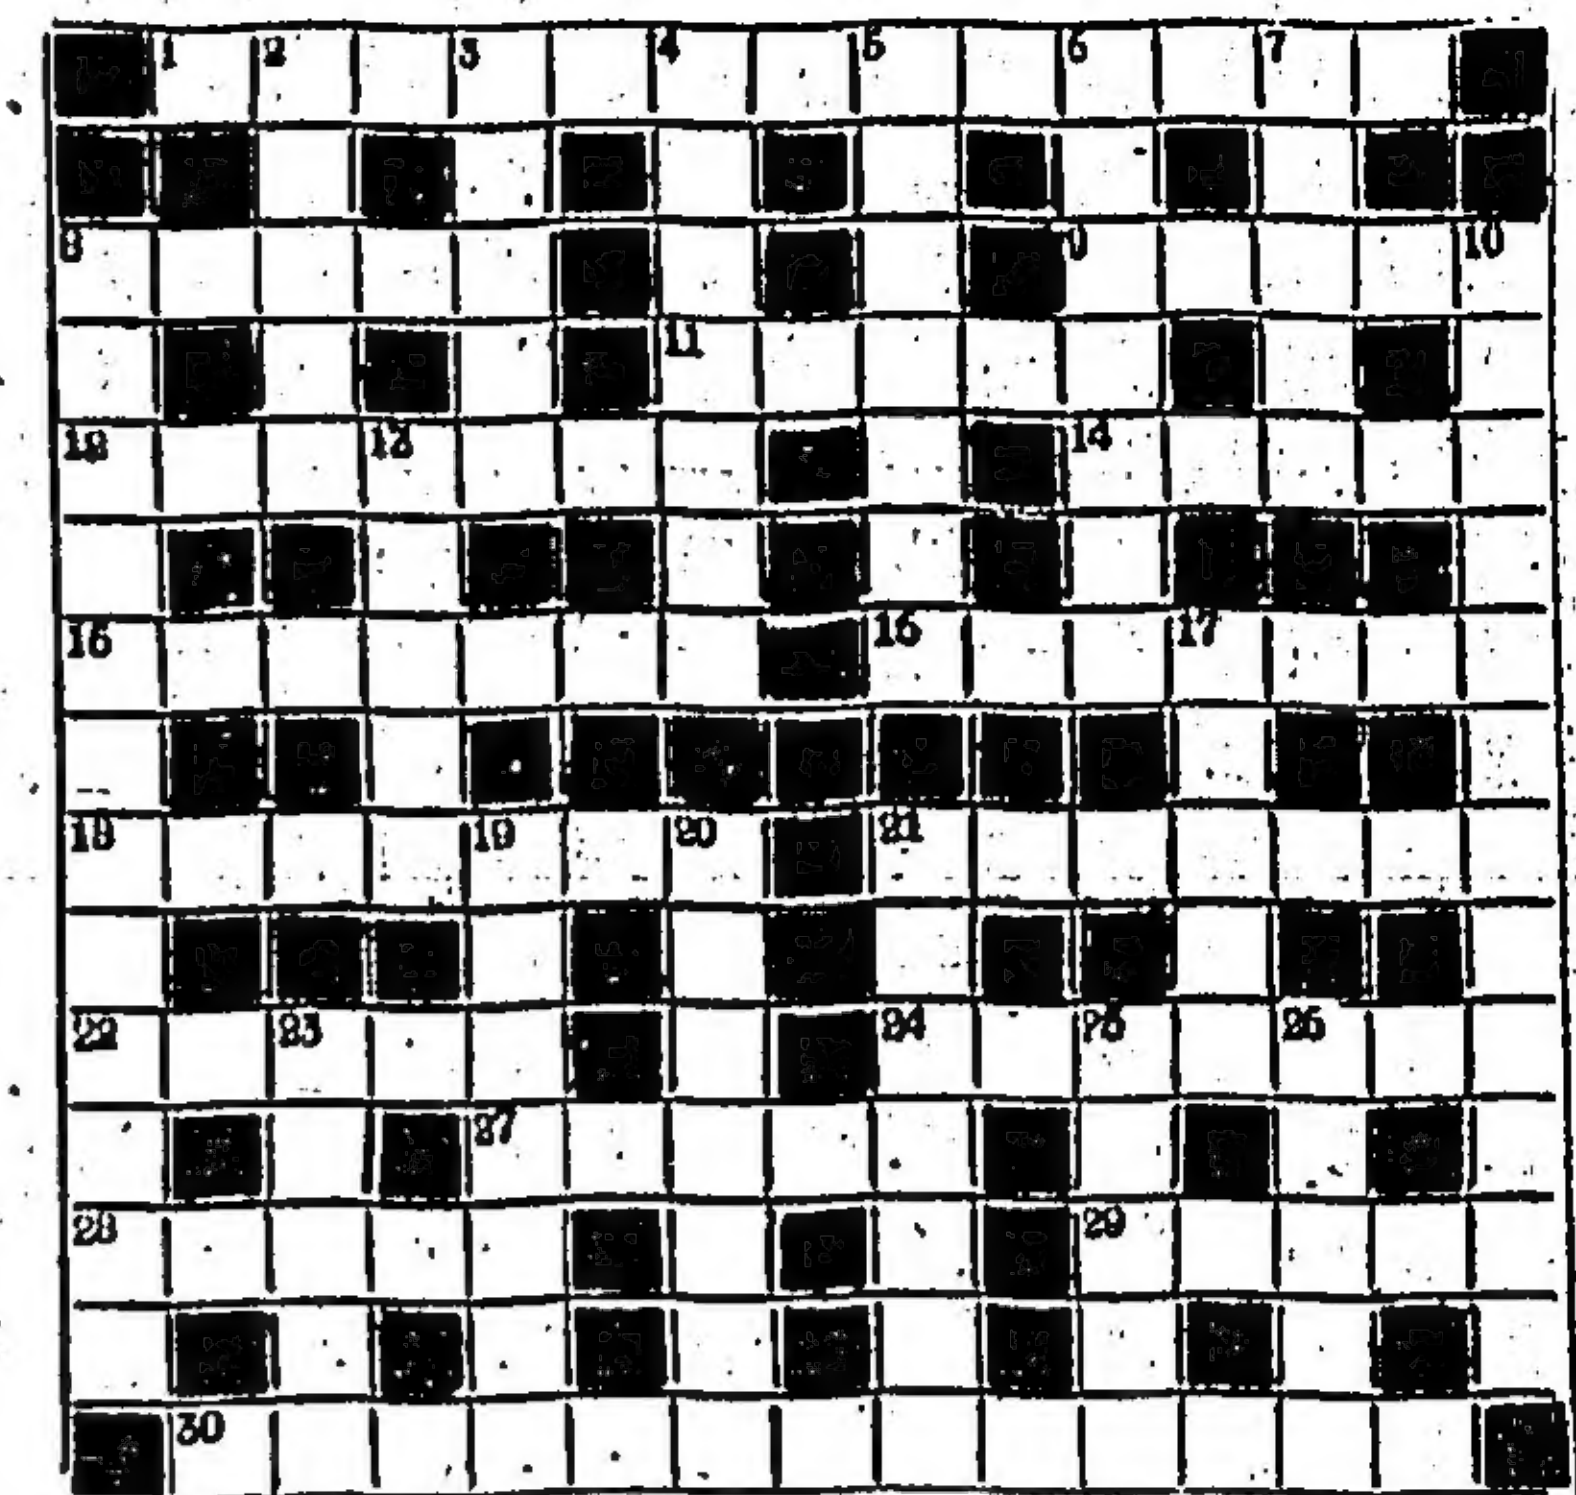

It's all in the planning. And don't forget that the energy and repose you store away in your system this summer is just that much velvet on the road to beauty next winter.

For the healthy, vibrant person is really the beautiful one. Features don't make a bit of difference in the long run. Nor does colour of hair or eyes. It's the spirit and contentment that you radiate that makes folks think you beautiful.

Go after beauty this summer. The first step toward beauty-health this summer is to keep as cool as possible. Wear the lightest clothes you can, and this means one of those summer girdles, if you wear one. They don't cost much. And keeping cool through the waistline and over the hips is something, on a torrid day.

When you get home nights from work, peel off your things and take a dip and then get into a minimum of clothes. Go barefoot, if your family will stand it. If they won't, wear barefoot sandals. The more air you get onto your body, the better will be your health. Sneak out by yourself, find a nice spot, and get a sunbath, every chance you get. Long after winter has settled down to freeze you, the glow from summer sunbaths will still keep you feeling good.

RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS

Adapted by BIANCO E. JONES from the M.G.M. Picture.

Prince Paul, with two doctors at his heels, was just about to enter the sick room where Rasputin was dominating the situation when he finished yesterday's instalment.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER NINE

Prince Paul, wondering at all that he had seen and heard since he had stepped into the hallway, still stood at the entrance to the Tsarevitch's bedchamber. Natasha's light tone of voice puzzled him. Certainly she would be more concerned if the Tsarevitch was as seriously ill as Remezov had led him to believe. The presence of the huge, blackbearded monk, and his confident air before the Imperial presence, amazed him. Who could this man be? Finally he collected himself, remembered where he was and bowed from the waist, murmuring:

"Your Majesties."

The Tsarina rose and came forward happily, both her hands extended.

"Dr. Wolff is here," Prince Paul informed her again.

As if remembering for the first time that this was the physician Prince Paul had been sent so many weary versts to find, she said:

"Oh, yes. Come in, Doctor."

Wolff came forward hesitantly, followed by Remezov. On seeing the Russian doctor—the Tsarina took him by the hand.

"Come in, Remezov," she said.

"Forgive me for the other day," the doctor bowed over her hand with a politely murmured:

"Your Majesty."

"Thank you for coming, Doctor," the Tsar said coming forward to take Wolff's hand. "I'm afraid it was a needless journey," he added happily.

"Sincerely hope so, Your Majesty," Wolff replied heartily. He turned to look at the little Tsarevitch, who, dressed in a white blouse, lay on the bed, looking upward as if unaware of the presence of the group. Beside him, sitting on the edge of the bed, and holding his hand, was Rasputin. With Paul's entrance, he had quickly made for the bedchamber. The peasant was evidently hostile toward this seeming intrusion. Paul immediately walked to the foot of the bed.

"Alexei!" he called softly. There was no reply. A queer look came over the boy's face as he looked dully at Paul, nor was there any sign of recognition in his once lustrous eyes. Unable to understand the child's attitude, Paul turned to search for Wolff. The doctor came quickly to Paul's side and stood looking at the Tsarevitch. Rasputin followed them with his eyes, waiting as if for an attack. Prince Paul made an attempt at sick bed cheeriness.

"This is Dr. Wolff, Alexei," he said lightly. "He is going to make you well."

For the first time Rasputin addressed them. His tone was naive, curious, as he stroked the boy's forehead.

"What can doctors do that God has not already done?" he asked softly. He made the sign of the cross as the Empress approached the boy.

Rasputin's word caused Paul and Dr. Wolff to be taken slightly aback. They glanced at each other.

Wolff turned from Paul at the sound of the Empress's voice.

"It has been a miracle, doctor," she said, smiling gratefully at Rasputin. "It is a great miracle. She turned to Remezov. "Come, doctor," she said in a burst of ecstasy, "tell them how you left my boy."

Paul began to speak before Remezov could answer. There was some slight doubt in his voice as he said to Rasputin:

"We're all very grateful, Father, for what you've done."

Paul turned to Wolff.

"It's really remarkable," he said. Wolff shrugged his shoulders.

"I shall be the first to admit it," he said pointedly, "after I've made a slight examination."

He reached out for the boy's hand and his trained fingers found the pulse. Rasputin looked from Wolff to the Empress. Not deigning to speak directly to the great doctor, he asked the Empress:

"What does he want to know?"

"Oh, several things," Wolff answered easily. He bent down toward the boy. "Have you any pain, Your Highness?" he asked solicitously.

Alexei's eyes remained blank. Then, as he turned to Rasputin, a questioning look came into them. The peasant grinned at Wolff and the grin held an obvious sneer. He turned to the boy.

"Alexei, are you in any pain?" he asked smoothly.

Alexei's face remained entirely vacant as he replied:

"No."

With an arrogant stare, Rasputin asked:

"Anything else?"

Wolff controlled his anger at Rasputin's tone and attitude.

"Yes," he replied. With his other hand he opened the boy's eye. The Tsarevitch shrank from him.

"I'm not going to hurt you, Your Highness," he said earnestly. His words seemed not to have been heard. The boy continued to shrink from his touch.

Paul, looking on, decided that the awkwardness of the situation demanded diplomatic intervention.

"I'm an old friend of his," he said cheerfully. "Perhaps I can—"

He walked toward the boy as he spoke. He reached out to touch Alexei, but the boy recoiled violently, straining toward Rasputin.

Paul stopped short in surprise. "I'm sorry," he said gently. He tried to touch the boy's forehead. Again Alexei turned his head, burying it among the pillows.

"No!" the Tsarevitch cried out.

"He isn't himself yet, Paul," the Empress said.

Wolff was still holding the boy's pulse. Now, about to take a heart count, he said gently:

"Can you sit up, Your Highness? Just a little?"

There was a harsh laugh from the bearded peasant. They all looked at him questioning.

"Can he sit up?" Rasputin mimicked Wolff contemptuously. "He'll stand up!" he said with great assurance. He'll run around the room! Come, show them, Alexei!"

Like a robot controlled by a brain outside itself Alexei started to rise from the bed. Alarmed, Wolff pressed him back gently.

"Don't, Your Highness," he pleaded. "No exertion, please." He turned to the Empress, "Your Majesty"

Rasputin laughed in amusement. "Don't you believe he's cured?" he demanded. His voice took on an authoritative, insulting note as he said sharply:

"Let go of him!"

Wolff looked to the Empress. She nodded, and Wolff let the boy's hand fall. He turned to watch as Rasputin backed slowly away from the bed. Very deliberately, the Monk said:

"Alexei, come to me."

The boy moved forward like a thing on wires. The peasant encouraged him.

"Faster! Faster! That's it! Show them what two days have done!"

As the boy reached his extended arms, Rasputin swooped him up and carried him back the short distance to the bed.

The Empress beamed with pride at the boy's accomplishment.

"What do you think of that, Doctor?" she asked.

Wolff shook his head.

"It's amazing!" he admitted.

"Are you sure the diagnosis was correct?" he finally asked Remezov. "You saw the result of the blood tests," Remezov protested.

Wolff seemed dissatisfied.

"I should like to make another," he said.

Turning to the Empress, Wolff said:

"I should like to be alone with the patient. May I?"

It was Rasputin who answered. Sharply, incisively, he snapped out:

"No." "Stick your needles in guinea pigs if you like!"

He turned to the Empress.

"The way to lose God's power is to challenge it," he told her. "Do you want your boy to die?"

Passionately, he pleaded that the doctors had had their chance. A

The Invisible Death

Germs, the invisible causes of Ailments, Sickness—and Death, make their successful attack when your natural bodily resistance is lowered. IZAL Kills Germs. Protect yourself against Influenza, Colds, Catarrhs and Fevers by gargling regularly with diluted IZAL.

Germs cling to the Skin—use IZAL when you wash; it is the most powerful protection against Skin Complaints. Wash your Teeth-brush and Shaving-brush in IZAL. A tiny cut or scratch often has a fatal ending—cleanse at once with IZAL. IZAL is the most efficient Germicide for all Toilet purposes.

The Journal of State Medicine

published a report (August 1924) of tests made by THE ROYAL INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC HEALTH which showed the germs of Typhoid and Diphtheria to be still alive after from 25 to 66 hours treatment with certain so-called household "disinfectants". Therefore be on the safe side and use IZAL in your home for all household disinfection. IZAL kills germs of every kind. All IZAL is tested against virulent Typhoid germs, and destroys them in 5 minutes, even at a dilution of 1 in 1,000.

LEADERS DISCUSS CHINA AFFAIRS

Nanking, Aug. 11.

In response to urgent messages, Mr. Wang Ching-wel, President of the Executive Yuan, accompanied by Tsen Tsung-min, Vice-Minister of Railways, left for Kiangling, en route for Kuling this morning, travelling in General Chiang Kai-shek's private aeroplane.

The purpose of General Chiang in summoning the Nanking officials is said to be a discussion of the military, political and financial affairs of North China, particularly as they affect Chahar.

General Huang Fu, chairman of the Rehabilitation Commission, is already with General Chiang and will take part in the conference.

Wang Ching-wel expects to return to the capital on Monday. He said that it is difficult for the Government to regard the future with optimism in view of the Japanese-Manchukuoan attack upon Dolonor and the bombing of Kuyuan.—Reuter.

CURRENT COMMENT
BY "COASTER"

Our Roads.

The observations made in this column last week concerning the maintenance and general repairing of the Colony's roads, prompted a local motorist to suggest that if Government is not prepared to spend the money required in order to re-establish our roads as "first-class"—steps should be taken to ensure that solid-tired vehicles be totally prohibited. The gentleman who makes the suggestion has been an enthusiastic motorist in Hongkong for some fifteen years, and he wholeheartedly supports the contention made that the Colony's roads are "nothing like as good as they were even ten years ago." He instances the heavy P.W.D. lorries which are frequently to be seen with the solid rubber tyres worn down almost to the rims, which do not obey speed regulations, but lumber over the roads, heavily laden, playing havoc with the surface.

Undesirable.

The fact that Regulations were enacted some few years ago which assessed the taxation of solid-tired vehicles at a much higher scale than those equipped with pneumatics, indicates that the authorities are well aware of the undesirability of solid tyres, and yet the Public Works Department, and possibly other Government Departments, still employ vehicles which in no small measure are responsible for the present unsatisfactory state of many of our roads. It will not be many years before someone suddenly realises that a vast amount of resurfacing is necessary, and then we may anticipate exceptionally heavy votes in order to remedy the ravages brought about by false economy. It is certainly a thousand pities that the Roads Department was scrapped, although even that drastic step may not be responsible for the present complaint. Bricks cannot be made without straw, and our roads cannot be properly maintained without reasonable expenditure.

Kowloon Taxis.

The Peninsula is well served in the matter of taxi services, and the latest innovation, small vehicles at modest fares, is proving most popular. Intended for two passengers, the fare is fixed at thirty cents for the first mile and five cents for each subsequent quarter of a mile. It is to be hoped that the system will be introduced on the Island, for it does offer an effective solution to the ricksha problem.

The New Chevrolet.

Far East Motors, the local distributors for Chevrolet vehicles, report a brisk demand for the various new models, in fact, the same story as in the case of Buick applies. The first shipments have been sold out, and orders booked ahead for cars now en route. The Chevrolet does offer splendid value and in appearance and general finish, is one of the smartest cars on the road.

JOBS FOR GERMAN WORKLESS GOVT. APPROVES BIG SCHEME HUGE GRANT TO BE MADE

Berlin. Work is to be created for the German unemployed by a big scheme which has been approved by the government, and for which the minister of finance has been authorized to issue exchequer bonds up to one milliard marks—£50,000,000 at par.

The following are some of the Measures:

1. Marriages are to be encouraged by giving couples financial support.
2. Women are to be transferred from business employment to house-hold work.
3. Buildings to be repaired.
4. Garden cities to be laid out.
5. Agricultural settlements to be started.
6. Industry to be encouraged.
7. New roads to be built.

In connection with the last measure, Signor Pepo Puricelli, the well-known Italian road constructor, is in Germany and has recently had an interview with Chancellor Hitler.

The bill to deal with unemployment is sponsored by Dr. Schacht, Reichsbank, who will deal with the financing of the scheme.—Reuter.

Novelist's Dream Comes True

PERFECT BOUQUET OF FLOWERS

Paris. A great Novelist's dream bouquet was made real when Balzac's tomb, which has been cleaned and repaired, was officially handed over to the city of Paris.

In his novel "The Lily of the Valley," Balzac describes a beautiful bouquet, in which the most lovely flowers charmed the eye, while their names made harmony to the ear. The organising committee decided to bring Balzac's bouquet to life as a wreath for his tomb.

A leading florist was consulted, but after studying the list of the flowers given he said:

"Their names strung together like that read beautifully, unfortunately half of them do not flower at the same time of year."

The florist determined, however, in honour of Balzac to ransack the different climates of France for the flowers. He succeeded in assembling them all and the bouquet of "The Lily of the Valley" now lies as a wreath on Balzac's tomb.—Reuter.

It is simply weakness—a break down as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. ### DETENTION HOUSE SCANDAL

We cannot imagine that there were many residents of the Colony who were fully conversant with the meaning of an order for committal to the House of Detention prior to the revelations in The Critic and the Telegraph, or there must have been public outcry long ere this. Public opinion here is slow to manifest itself, laissez faire has far too firm a grip, but we believe, we must, that the more decent type of resident would soon have grown so ashamed, as the number of committals piled up, that reform would have been demanded. Now that attention has been brought to the really appalling conditions in the "House" in so striking a manner, it may not be necessary to urge a speedy remedy upon the authorities. It is a disgraceful blot upon the name of the Colony that a man should be gaoled, for all practical purposes, for the "crime" of poverty, particularly in these days when, it is certain, the proportion of deserving cases must be high. We admit that the system is not entirely harsh. The inmates are allowed freedom for four hours daily to look for jobs and these hours are extended frequently upon request. They are not now required to work as once they were, though we doubt if the majority of men would object to light work in more respectable surroundings. Every effort, too, is made to assist them in finding employment. These factors considered, conditions are still shocking. Discipline is to be expected, but discipline should not require men guilty of no crime to be herded with criminals of all sorts and description. Plainly, the House of Detention should not be in the gaol, nor should it bear any resemblance to a gaol. The system practiced here would not be tolerated for a moment in England. The unemployed individual at home is helped in one of two ways: he is given financial assistance or he is placed in a poor law institution, which is controlled more upon the lines of a hospital than anything else. The problem in this Colony requires different treatment undoubtedly, but it should not be beyond the wit and ability of Government to devise a satisfactory alternative to the present system. A building right away from the gaol should be adapted and in this new House of Detention some attention should be paid to the fact that though the men who go there are down and out, they still have human instincts,

NOTES OF THE DAY

In discussing the suggestion that the new Government House be placed in the Botanical Gardens and in stressing objections to the alienation of the gardens, from public use, we did not overlook other strong reasons for opposition. In the various stages of the big scheme upon which the Government is embarking, there will be a considerable amount of money to, shall we say, play with. It will be agreed, however, that that will not justify any departure from the principle of careful economy which has guided the Colony's expenditure over a number of years. Adoption of the proposal for Government House in the Botanical Gardens would involve the construction of another residence for H.E. the Governor on the Peak and although it might not be built upon a magnificent scale, neither would it be a jerry-built six-roomer.

FANLING BUNGALOW

It will be recalled that only a few months ago, Legislative Council sanctioned the construction of a bungalow for the Governor at Fanling. The plan went through without a word of opposition; on the contrary, some doubt was expressed whether the building contemplated was quite good enough. Apart from that, it was generally felt that approval could be given without stint. We doubt, however, if that feeling would have been quite so strong as it was but for the understanding, at the time, that Government contemplated abandoning Mountain Lodge and the construction of Government House in the Peak District, removing the necessity for two residences, one for summer and one for winter.

NEW CITY HALL

The large amount of money which will accrue to the Government in the course of the development scheme outlined on Thursday must, as we say, be spent wisely and one of the things that the public will demand will be a City Hall worthy of the name and worthy of the city. We do not doubt the intentions of Government in this matter, but it is just as well that they should be in no doubt about community feeling. In the last ten years, or so, residents were undoubtedly inclined to look upon the old City Hall rather scornfully. A little reflection, however, will bring realization that when the old City Hall was constructed, it must have been the Colony's most ambitious building, and one of the finest, architecturally and in the more matter of size, of its time. Similarly, the new City Hall, the City Hall of the 1930's, should reflect this period; it should have the best that the Colony can put into it; and if it is not to be expected that it should dwarf all surrounding structures, it should not itself be dwarfed into insignificance.

PRIZE COMPETITION

The best way to achieve this objective and to obtain a civic building comforting to the eye would be, we suggest, to follow the precedent set elsewhere and to choose the design from numbers entered by architects in a prize competition scheme. We should also suggest a similar procedure in order to obtain the most suitable design for the new Government House. This is the method which is most likely to be productive of the happiest of results.

IRISH TENSION

Political tension has grown up in Ireland with such rapidity that Mr. de Valera seems to entirely have lost his grip upon the situation. A great deal depends upon events in Dublin to-morrow. If the Irish capital emerges without serious disorders, Mr. de Valera may yet succeed in putting his house in order and avoid striking his flag, although the dice appear to be heavily weighted against him. In Ireland, as elsewhere, Fascism is surging to the forefront and provoking an upheaval. Many of the Blue Shirts have been arrested, but the movement gains in strength daily and a real test cannot long be delayed. What Ireland thinks about it we do not know, but the choice appears to be between two alternatives, neither of which has any particular attractions.

A NEW WORLD ORDER

The Elements of Monetary Reform

An examination of the elements of monetary reform forms a highly important feature of "Christianity and the Crisis," the remarkable book partially reviewed in this column yesterday.

The Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Hewlett Johnson, conducts the examination and he demands three processes in monetary reform (1) that the Community must control the creation of money, (2) that it must be created, not according to any arbitrary standard such as gold, but according to economic and industrial requirements, and (3) that money must reach consumers in adequate amounts.

He shows how debts to banks create further debts and proposes the elimination of what Mr. Cope recently termed "the Third Property of Money" which at present causes a progressive disproportion between purchasing power and prices. Export credits, bankruptcies, writing down of capital, hire-purchase debts have, the Dean points out, helped to hide the trouble and postponed for a while the inevitable stalling of the machine.

Space forbids a closer study of the economic solution offered, but it is based upon the principle of The Just Price and if the book contained no more than this it would be sufficiently thought-provoking and stimulating.

Later, in dealing with the burden of debt hanging like a millstone round the neck of industry and of society, it is pointed out that we cannot afford to pay more than half our national taxation revenue to functionless war debt holders and provide national housing schemes, slum clearances and a high level of education. We see clearly that we cannot pay the American war debt in gold, that she can only be paid in goods if she will receive them. But we refuse to see that we cannot run a Christian social community with rising standards for all on the basis of the dictatorship of the Capitalist, directed mainly to one end—the extraction of the largest possible income for the owners of land and capital in the form of rent, interest and profit.

All civic and, ultimately, all State reform depends on the possibility of altering our industrial structure, organisation and functions in the direction of a scientific ordering of community life. We have to demand as Christians that we shall no longer tolerate a community life dependent on profit as the prior claim before existence or necessities are forthcoming.

The policy would mean state ownership of power, railways, harbours, shipping etc. but not necessarily state management and this would involve control of banking currency and credit in the public interest. We must plan our society on these lines or collapse.

The alternative is a collectivised man with one religion—the religion of hate and strife to secure justice.

Exigencies of space forbid a broader treatment of all the reforms courageously demanded, but among them are the reform of education enabling a common culture, a more equal distribution of wealth, rising standards of life with increasing leisure, the rebirth of the village on the Swedish model and so on.

In reference to the manner in which Britain progressed towards her present predicament, it is stated: The idea of freedom is one of the easiest to invoke in an English mind. And it can be invoked for any cause. In the economic sphere, the claim for freedom has in effect been the claim to immunity from interference when acting in ways that made others into virtual slaves. We are coming now to realise that the economic freedom of the rich and powerful means the economic enslavement of the weak and poor. We can see now that the "equality of opportunity" which so warmed the hearts of nineteenth century Liberals is a ghastly travesty of equality.

Do the Churches intend to do anything about it? The average man feels that the Churches are too deeply involved in, and with, the present social structure to be able to lead any movement of revolution, however peaceful in method. The people in those Churches are able to endure the sight of the waste of life, the cruel inequalities and the unmeasured sufferings which still continue; or, if the sight of them becomes too painful, they know how to become blind.

It might be said, with some painful truth, says the Canon of Westminster, that Christian people have had far too much patience and too little courage and daring. Churchmen have exalted the virtue of moderation to such a pitch that they have come very near to apostasy.

Dr. A. Herbert Gray, M.A., D.D., says: "Whether we have a right to criticise Communists is an open question. We say our method of sacrifice is better than their method of violence. But to what extent do we practise such sacrifice? Christians declare that the Communist plan has fatal flaws in it. But are we going to prove ourselves as much in earnest over building the Kingdom as those others are about building their Communist State?"

The moral standards the Church has approved or condoned in the economic sphere have not been its own proper standards. The philosophy on which the business life of the last two centuries has been built has been utterly alien to its own philosophy.

The fundamental weakness of the Church has been its lack of moral courage and realism. It has been far too ready to come to terms with the gods of cradle, insensate nationalism. It has been, and is, too much on the side of property. What it needs at present most desperately is that moral sincerity and passion which is the best gift of the rising generation.

Most of this is quotation. It reveals very clearly that these Church thinkers have not run away from their problems.

Behind the book lies the conviction that the total inspiration of Christianity is sufficient for the modern task, but only on condition that the very different inspirations of different periods in Christian history are combined in one single whole. As stated yesterday, the book is on sale at a cost of $4.50 at the Bible Society depot and no-one who takes the slightest interest in politics, economic, or the Church, should fail to secure a copy.—W. J. K.

This was the rather disappointed conclusion of a K wearer on examining his pair of K Shoes—all several years old. ## FASCISM IN THE FUTURE

A CORRESPONDENT'S VIEWS

Sir,—I have read with disgust many times your articles under "Notes of the Day" but I think today's one is the limit.

Your remarks on the Fascist policy, not only in England but everywhere else lead one to the belief that you are not impartial in writing about such matters. Your statement that "We do not want the ruthless cult of Fascism in any form in the Colony or anywhere else under the British Flag" is both a mis-statement and an expression of your own opinions. Many would like to see Fascism established under the British Flag. The British Fascist policy which you denounce seems to me to be the only one under which any Imperial Government should work.

I think anyhow, even if you disagree with the Fascist Policy you should not air so freely your leanings towards Socialism and also make such unwarranted attacks on Conservative and Fascist Bodies which you do not agree with.

I am not a Fascist myself nor a member of the new League which you refer to, as I do not think the necessity for this Organisation exists for British people at the present time, but I do however believe that such organisations will become necessary later. Then many people who are not at present, will become Fascists.

Yours etc.,

EMPIRE CRUSADER.

REPLY.

We do not apologise for our views. The world to-day is interested in political trends more than ever before and is demanding positive leadership. In the need that is felt, lies the main appeal of Fascism. It does have a definite programme, dogmatic and ill-founded as it may be, but nonetheless offering something concrete. Those who advocate Fascism are men of strong convictions. Its opponents, who condemn its accomplishment or repression, its destruction of political and civic liberty, hold views equally strong. We are prepared to agree with our correspondent to this extent: the current trend of world affairs probably means that most peoples will have to make a choice between Fascism and Democracy. In studying events affecting the exercise of that choice, it is unwise to remain neutral. One must incline in one direction or the other. Neutrality is tantamount to running away from the problem. If we do not run away, we (and Empire Crusader) express our convictions, for or against Fascism. In our view, Capitalism is doomed and the only hope for the future is the gradual development of a new world order of society with an international outlook. Socialism is a dead end. Communism of the Moscow type is against human nature. Fascism means an end to liberty. Another solution is necessary, and it must be based on the proposition that the true aim of society is the good life of every individual.—Ed. H. K. T.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET STEADY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was steady yesterday. Business done 1,340,000 shares. The market closed irregular as a result of a late rally in gold shares. Trading was most dull owing to weakness in grains which closed with a downward trend due to disappointment in the crop report. Our New York Office cable (Last Night). The market is displaying a good tone but irregularity is likely to prevail to-day. Wheat: Good report confirms heaviest losses in over thirty years. Canada was hard hit. The report furnishes the basis for a firm belief in higher prices which favours buying on breaks. Cotton: Lack of aggressive support and increasing Southern hedge selling were noted in the failure of the market to hold advances. New bullish incentive appears necessary to materially improve prices.

On a tour of the world the German cruiser Koeln arrived in Shanghai from Tsingtao. Soon after she berthed the commander and officers gave a reception to representatives of the Shanghai Press. In the picture an officer is shown telling a number of the guests the story of the kangaroo mascot Seppi, who was taken on board at Sydney.

KING WORKS AS NAVY

HISTORY MADE IN AEGHANISTAN

AID TO PUBLIC WORKS

Kabul.

The King of Afghanistan and his only son, Prince Muhammad Zahir Khan, made history here when they took a pickaxe each and laid to with a will on the levelling of a site for a new Military Academy.

Kabul wanted a new academy; the old one was getting too old. So the authorities decided on a site of some sixty acres south-west of the famous citadel, Bala Hissar.

It was just a great mass of debris and earth mounds; it had been neglected for years. Experts said about 12,000,000 cubic feet of earth would have to be excavated—a long and arduous job.

The magnitude of the task did not deter the Afghans. Over 20,000 of them, including the entire Army, volunteered to level the site.

The work started with great national fervour. The King, his son, the Army, the War Minister, an imposing array of Cabinet Ministers, Sirdars, students, professional men and ordinary labourers, some from remote villages, piled pickaxe and shovel for dear life.

Bands blared martial tunes and the work took on the aspects of a national festival.

Probably no public undertaking in the world's history has ever been completed in such record time.

At the end of the first day tons and tons of earth had been removed. And at the end of a fortnight the whole task was completed. In the ordinary course of events it would have taken months.—Reuter.

HOPWOOD AND LEYLAND THE ONLY SUCCESSFUL BOWLERS

London, Aug. 11.—Yorkshire, after their temporary set-back by Lancashire returned to their normal form and beat Leicester in the county cricket championship by an innings and 251 runs.

There was some more prolific scoring. Yorkshire helped themselves to 550, Lancashire compiled 414 for 5 declared, Hampshire hit up 466, Notts 396 for 7, Sussex 441 and Somerset 429-8 declared.

But only in the case of Yorkshire and Lancashire did the bowlers prove good enough to dismiss the opposition and gain decisive wins. In the other three matches, two were decided on the first innings and one left drawn, Notts failing to complete an innings against Hampshire.

Herbert Sutcliffe was in scoring mood against Leicester and put together a characteristic 174. Leyland settled Leicester's fate by subsequently taking 6 wickets for 46 runs.

Despite Lancashire's big total, there was only one individual three-figure contribution, Lister just reaching his 100 before the declaration was made.

HOPWOOD 11 FOR 107.

Hopwood, however, scored a happy success with the ball, in all capturing 11 wickets for 107 runs.

Philip Mead and Potchery made light of the Notts bowling and between them contributed 270 runs to the Hampshire aggregate of 466. Mead batted brilliantly for his 132 and Potchery made a sound 118.

Notts were just as happy against the Hampshire attack, and with Keaton scoring 110 and the rest of the team helping with useful double-figure innings, time was played out with the score board registering 396 for 7. Notts then being 70 behind with three wickets in hand.

Wigs on the Bowling Green

WOMAN FORM THEIR OWN CLUBS

Should women play bowls? Cold-shouldered by the men, women have this season answered this question with a decided affirmative. They are forming their own clubs everywhere, their own county associations, and are holding their own annual tournaments.

Bowls was the last of men's games to be invaded by women, and it is the only game in which there is any trace of antagonism. Women have not been allowed to enter the hundreds of men's private bowling clubs all over the country, and a short time ago they were banned by the English Bowling Association from playing in the annual tournaments.

NO "HENPECKING." Men say that the admission of women to the bowling clubs would spoil the atmosphere of the game. They are ungallant enough to regard the presence of women players as an embarrassment. They say they will not be henpecked on the green.

It is unfortunate, also for women in their desire to make bowling a mixed game that the majority of men bowlers are middle-aged or elderly, with pre-judices.

Women it is argued, will never play bowls as well as men. They are handicapped by temperament and physical structure.

The Selection Committee of the Shanghai Polo Club finally have made a selection for the team to defend the Kerwick Cup against the challenges of Hongkong and Pootian. Although the Americans this time have had to drop a man and only have three in the team, the British, who for so many years had a monopoly on the polo field, again have been defeated. The team selected consists of the following:—Allman, No. 3; Franklin,

HOW AUSTIN AND PERRY BEAT THE AMERICANS

VINES BUT A SHADOW OF HIS USUAL SELF

FRED PERRY'S SUCCESSFUL FORCING TACTICS

Below will be found a full description of the first two matches in the Inter-Zone final of the Davis Cup between Britain and America, in which H. W. Austin and Fred Perry beat Ellsworth Vines and Wilmer Allison respectively.

It was generally conceded by the critics that Vines played the worst game of his career, whereas Austin was steadiness and accuracy personified.

Perry simply stormed Allison to beat him in straight sets and was only seriously extended during one part of the match. The first two games went with service, Vines winning his with well-directed drives. Austin by peppering the American's backhand and forcing him to come half-way up the court by cleverly angled shots and then taking the point by balls straight down the line. In the third game Austin was brilliant, he stood up well to the hurricane service and broke through after deuce had been called twice, with two grand passing shots, which gave him the game and the lead at 2-1.

Vines then tried to crowd on the pace with whirlwind forehand drives, but broke down, and Austin was 3-1. Vines seemed "rattled," scored two double faults, and Austin broke through his service once more, to lead 4-1. Austin then took his own service, to make it 5-1, with a perfect ace. Vines made no attempt to save the set on his own service, double faulting in succession. First set to Austin, with Vines shaky and as unimpressive as he was in the challenge round on the same courts last year.

In the first game of the second set Perry forged ahead to lead 4-1 to an accompaniment of disapproving protest from the spectators for which there appeared to be no reason. The disturbance was sharply suppressed by the umpire.

With a neat volley Perry captured the sixth game for 5-1, and a few moments later was out at 6-1. The set lasted only ten minutes and there was only one man in the picture—Perry, Allison, like Vines, had been over-driving.

In the first game of the second set Perry was finding the net too often, and he dropped it in consequence on his own service, to love. Cleverly placed drives in the second enabled Perry to level the score, but Allison, who was now playing much more confidently, took the third and fourth, passing Perry as he came up to the net and retrieving some of the Englishman's best shots. Allison was exploiting the Centre Court theory, driving with splendid length to the middle of the base line, and forcing Perry, for the moment, to engage in a base-line duel to his disadvantage.

BATTLE ROYAL.
Perry, however, refused to be pinned down for long. In the

Tennis Team For Australia

REVERSED DECISION BY L.T.A.

After stating that an official team would not be sent to Australia this year, the English Lawn Tennis Association reversed its decision and has now announced that a team will be sent.

The earlier decision of the Lawn Tennis Association not to send an official team to Australia this year aroused much criticism. Since a team was to be sent to America, the refusal of Australia's invitation seemed unfortunate, especially as Australia sent over such a distinguished team for Wimbledon, including the eventual winner of the men's singles, Jack Crawford.

The official view was that our players are in danger of staleness. F. J. Perry has had practically no respite from lawn tennis for two years, with the result that he was stale at Wimbledon and was knocked out when he would have won it if he had been reasonably fresh.

No doubt that was a correct assumption; but the case of Perry was only an isolated one. Jack Crawford has announced that he will definitely defend his title next year.

LAWN TENNIS TOURS.

The Lawn Tennis Association Council have decided to send a team of two men and two women to Helsingfors to play a match against Finland. During the British Week, Sept. 3 to 11, at the request of the Finnish L.T.A., it was decided that the team proposed to visit Helsingfors should play a match against the

PRAYA ROBBERY

MAN COMMITTED TO THE CRIMINAL SESSIONS

Tsang Wai, alias Chan On, was yesterday committed to stand his trial at the Criminal Sessions for having robbed Chan Chung-chuen (72) of $325, with resort to violence at No. 31, Connaught Road, West, First floor, on April 6.

The case was heard before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistrate's Court, the prosecuting officer being Detective Sub-Inspector O'Donovan. Yesterday afternoon further evidence was given, and Mr. W. R. Scott, A. S. P., deposed to the identification parade held, at which defendant was recognised by the complainant and another witness.

The robbery was alleged to have taken place about 3 p.m. on April 6. The defendant, with another man not in custody, went to the shop, and defendant was alleged to have produced a remittance order for $10, which the complainant found to be genuine. The complainant then took both men to his office, and when he was about to take the money out of a safe, he was attacked from behind and thrown to the ground. A towel was tied round his neck, and two handkerchiefs put into his mouth. The two men escaped with $325, and the defendant was arrested on July 26 at Shamshui.

choice must be made between him and the doctors!

The Empress fell on her knees beside the bed.

"We've already chosen!" she exclaimed. She looked at Wolff. "This man raised my son when none of you gave us a moment's hope! He's alive! I have him in my arms! Whom do you suppose I'm going to believe? Whom shall I have faith in now?"

Rasputin smiled back at her face radiant with joy.

"My daughter, your faith has been made whole," he said devoutly.

"I hope with all my heart that faith is well-founded," Wolff said. "At a sign from the Empress, Paul spoke to Wolff. Then, with a short bow to their Majesties the two doctors and Paul left the room."

"Well, the boy is alive," Rasputin said philosophically when they were in the hallway.

Paul stopped. He turned to the doctors.

"Wait here for a moment," he said. "I may be able to persuade her."

"I doubt it, my friend," Wolff said as Paul returned to the sick-

PIRATED STEAMER RETURNS.

SWATOW POLICE DETAIN
SIXTEEN MEN

Three passengers, eleven cabin boys, and two members of the crew are being held by the Swatow police on suspicion of being concerned with the piracy of the 2,000-ton China Merchant steamer Yu Shun, it was revealed at Shanghai by Capt. Wang Hung-say, commander of the vessel, when it arrived at the Kingleyuan Wharf from the southern port. The loss is estimated to be less than $10,000. Two passengers were kidnapped by the pirates for ransom.

The Yu Shun arrived at Canton on July 12, and left for Hongkong on her return trip with 147 passengers. The vessel reached Swatow on July 29. Being forewarned by the local office of the China Merchants of an attempted piracy, a strict search was instituted by police authorities at each port she called. At Swatow, about 40 passengers left and 50 boarded the boat. Every passenger on board was searched by the police. The Yu Shun left Swatow for Shanghai at 6 p.m. on July 31.

Surrounded by Pirates. After three hours' journey, the steamer reached the Three Chinney Bluff. Capt. Wang and a second officer who were then on the bridge were suddenly surrounded by a gang of armed men. At the order of the pirates, the course of the steamer was reversed.

With several men covering the two officers, others went below to assist looting. It was estimated altogether sixteen pirates, ten of whom were armed, participated in the looting.

When the Yu Shun reached Hong Kong, Mace Point at about noon the next day, the pirates sighted a junk, which was eventually commandeered. The gang carried away two passengers, the captain and an assistant commander, besides two bags of silver-ware and several bags of booty. Both the captain and the assistant commander were sent back by the pirates.

The steamer returned to Swatow where a thorough search of passengers and crew was made by the police. A large quantity of cash was found in possession of several cabin boys, the police detained them. Altogether sixteen persons are still in their hands for investigation.

According to the captain, no resistance was offered to the pirates. Only two shots were fired by them when they made a fishing boat come to the side of the steamer to take them ashore. No injuries were reported.

COMPANY MEETING

THE P. & O. BANKING
CORPORATION

The thirteenth ordinary general meeting of the P. & O. Banking Corporation, Limited, was held on June 30, in London.

Mr. William Edward Preston (the chairman) presided, and said in part:

The result for the year shows a net profit, after making all provisions for taxes, bad and doubtful accounts, and after valuing our investments at below market rates, of £111,318, which is an increase of some £4,000 on the results of the previous year. Shareholders will, I feel sure, be satisfied with this result, achieved in a year of great unsettlement, dwindling trade, and of unstable market conditions.

After paying our dividend, which you will observe, owing to the incidence of Indian and British taxation, requires some £4,000 more than last year, we are enabled to carry forward £14,563, as against £37,855 brought in. I feel confident the shareholders will wish to associate themselves cordially with the directors in their acknowledgment of the working of all our managers, both at home and abroad, who have contributed to this result. (Heard, heard.)

The Balance Sheet.

Our balance-sheet figures show very little variation, and such variations as do appear, as compared with last year and previous years, are due to causes which are common to all banks. An increase in current, deposit, and other accounts, a decrease in advances to customers, and an increase in the holding of Government securities have been the features of so many banking balance-sheets that it is unnecessary for me to do more than just to refer to these changes.

We have materially increased our holdings of Indian Government securities, which at the close of last year were just under £3,500,000, as against £284,000 at March 31, 1932. To a large extent this is due to the absence of suitable advances in India, but equally to the improvement in the Indian Government's credit since 1931, which has been a primary inducing cause for our investing our spare funds in this way.

The report and accounts were adopted, and the Chairman then moved, "That a dividend of 5 per cent. per annum less income-tax at 8s. 10d. on 259,416 shares be, and the same is hereby, declared payable on July 7, 1933, to the members who were on the London and Bombay registers of the Corporation on June 22, 1933."

This was also adopted, and the retiring directors—Mr. W. E. Preston, Mr. Colin F. Campbell, Mr. E. F. Mackay, and the Earl of Incheuch—were re-elected directors of the Corporation.

The meeting passed a vote of thanks to the Board.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

I often wonder if there are not too many players who depend upon mathematics too much in contract bridge. Some players add up the number of quick tricks that they locate in the combined two hands and if they hold so many they figure they can make game, while another definite figure tells them that they can make a slam.

I have seen hands with six quick tricks which produced only seven or eight playing tricks—and again I have seen hands with only two or three quick tricks that will produce game or even a slam.

Far better than the mathematical percentages are the inferences to be gained from the bidding. Let us take the following hand.

The Bidding

South, the dealer, opened the contracting with one diamond. While he has a hand strong in quick tricks, and with tenace positions, he cannot bid a no trump, as he holds a singleton. West passed, and North made a one over one forcing bid of one spade.

NORTH		SOUTH
♠ K-9-6-5-3	♥ 8-5	♠ K-9-6-5-3	♥ 8-5
♦ A-10	♣ A-10	♦ A-10	♣ A-10
♠ 10	♥ A-6-4-3	♠ 10	♥ A-6-4-3
♦ 9-7	♣ Q-8-7	♦ 9-7	♣ Q-8-7
♠ 6-4-3	♥ 6-4-3	♠ 6-4-3	♥ 6-4-3
♠ A-J-8-4	♥ A-Q-6-3-2	♠ A-J-8-4	♥ A-Q-6-3-2

East overcalled with two hearts—although it was an ideal spot for the negative double. After the two-heart bid, South jumped to three spades. West supported his partner's bid to four and North made a free bid of four spades. With this information South went to six spades.

The Play

East opened the king of hearts, which held the trick. He then shifted to the ten of diamonds, which the declarer won with the king. If the declarer could find the spades divided two-two, he knew that he was going to have no trouble in making his contract. However, if they were not divided, where could he expect to find the three spades?

Remember—that West supported his partner to four hearts. What could he have to justify this bid? He does not hold the ace or king of clubs, the ace, king or queen of diamonds, the ace or king of spades, or the king of hearts.

Therefore it would seem that the only justification in his fourheart bid was the fact that he originally held four or five heart, and either a void or singleton spade.

The declarer should first lay down his king of spades and then play a small spade. When East plays a small spade the declarer should take the finesse in dummy, which of course is good, and he now has the rest of the tricks.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Chance played a large part in David Manners' life, and several times when he seemed destined for a future absolutely foreign to theatricals, there has come an abrupt turning in the road. At one time, he applied for a job with the Durlacher Art Gallery of New York and London. He kept this job for three years. Then he went down with a severe cold and a doctor prescribed a complete change of climate. He went to Arizona and became a cowboy on a ranch, but his eastern accent gave him away and he was fired. He returned to New York to hunt a job and, through friends, was promised one on a sugar plantation. Going to the new position, he stopped off in Hollywood and was introduced to James Whale, who was preparing to direct "Journey's End" for the screen. Manners got a leading part.

Now he is leading man for Ellana Landi, who is co-starred with Ernest Truex in "The Warrior's Husband". Jesse L. Lasky production for Fox Film now at the King's Theatre.

"Smilin' Through."

Norma Shearer in "Smilin' Through," directed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by Sidney Franklin, with a supporting cast headed by Frederic March, Leslie Howard, Orla Higgins and Ralph Forbes, comes tomorrow to the Queen's Theatre. In this lavish production Norma Shearer for the first time in her career plays a dual role.

In this she duplicates the feat of Jane Cowl, who starred in the original New York stage production. Miss Shearer portrays both the tragic Moonyeen in the hoop-skirted Victorian sequences and Kathleen Sheridan in the modern scenes around which the happier romance of the tale centres.

It is Miss Shearer's second venture into the unusual in drama. Her previous departure was in "Strange Interlude," in which she had the singular experience of both speaking and hearing her silent thoughts expressed audibly.

In the speaking screen version of "Smilin' Through," Miss Shearer has an advantage which Jane Cowl was not permitted in the stage production. First as the intended bride and then as the ward of Sir John Carteret, the role which Leslie Howard plays, Miss Shearer is able to return, in fantasy to the mind of her brooding lover—in which moments of reverie she appears twice in a single scene.

Thus, although the story covers a fifty years' elapse of time, during which Leslie Howard grows from youth to white-haired old age, Miss Shearer remains youthful throughout. It is, the star concedes, her severest dramatic test to date, not excepting her difficult role in "Strange Interlude."

Frederic March and Leslie Howard, as heads of her dramatic cast, also have unusual trials in characterization. March, like Miss Shearer, has two roles in the story. In the beginning he is Jeremy Wayne, rival of Leslie Howard for the hand of Moonyeen. Later he portrays the son of Jeremy Wayne, returning to England at the time the country is preparing to enter the World War.

Of the three principals Leslie Howard alone retains a single identity. But his role is no less intricate, for it requires a transition covering three distinct ages.

As director of Miss Shearer's production of "Smilin' Through," Sidney Franklin is repeating the service he performed in Norma Talmadge's silent production.

"The Speckled Band"

"The Speckled Band" the Sherlock Holmes mystery drama now showing at the Central Theatre, is in many quarters held to be one of the best of the longer drama. The great thrill is in the denouement, but throughout the picture the mystery is excellently developed. A coroner's inquest plays an important part in the picture, the development of the ever-deepening mystery beginning with the underhand attempts of Dr. Ryott to mislead the jury by influencing the witnesses before they give evidence. As might be expected in a Sherlock Holmes drama, the astute detective is not as satisfied with the formal verdict as Dr. Watson appears to be. He anticipated trouble, and when next the band of gipsies encamps near Dr. Lytton's house, Helen Stoner is alarmed. There are indications to her that events are trending in much the same way as did before the death of her sister.

"Down To Earth"

"Most of the success I've had in pictures, I owe to Will Rogers". Irene Rich thus expressed her indebtedness during the making of Rogers' latest offering, "Down To Earth," in which she is again "his wife."

"Most people think I started being his 'wife' in his first talkies, 'They Had To See Paris' and 'So This Is London', Miss Rich explained. "The fact is, however, that Will gave me my first real chance thirteen years ago, at a time when I was just beginning to get a foothold in Hollywood. He had been signed to make a series of pictures for Paramount, and selected me as his leading woman in even of them. Why, I never understood, since I was practically unknown at the time.

"Those roles established me nicely, and thereafter I had no trouble getting assignments. But quite aside from the distinction of playing opposite Mr. Rogers, it is a marvellous experience to be associated with him and get his ideal on things at first hand. I don't believe that anyone who has been with him can ever forget it".

"Down To Earth," which comes to the King's Theatre on Wednesday is Rogers' eighth talking picture, and continues the hectic adventures of the Peters family which began in "They Had To See Paris".

Besides Miss Rich, the cast includes Dorothy Jordan and Matty Kemp in the Juvenile leads, Mary Carlisle, Theodore Lodi, Brandon Hurst and Clarence Wilson. David Butler directed for Fox Films, with Edwin Burke writing the screen play and dialogue from the Homer Croy story.

SOLDIER SENT TO PRISON

STEALS WATCH AND RUNS AWAY

Private Walter Langdon, of the Lincolnshire Regiment, stationed at Shamshulpo Barracks, was sent to prison for six weeks by Mr. Wynne-Jones, this morning for stealing a gold wrist watch from a Chinese Jeweller's establishment at 67, Queen's Road Central.

"I happened to like the window. A spell came over me," said Langdon.

Detective-sergeant Suter, said the defendant went into the shop last night and asked to be shown a watch. He walked out with the watch and then ran away. He was caught by a private watchman at Lee Yuen Street East. When searched at the Police Station the watch was found in his possession.

An officer of the Lincoln's said defendant bore quite a good character, did his work well and was sober. There was no entry on his record sheet for the past year, but he had previously had a lapse of this nature. "I think he gets fits of depression," he said.

The previous conviction was for smashing glass windows in May last year.

The magistrate said that in view of the previous offence he could not give defendant the option of a fine.

EUROPEAN MANAGER CHARGED

ALLEGED FALSE
PRETENCES

Lewis Edwin Sotherton Hodge, aged 44 years, manager of the Union Transport Company, appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning, charged with obtaining $45 by false pretences from the Concrete Products Ltd.

Defendant is alleged to have purported to have effected repairs to a junk belonging to the complainant firm, and to have been given the money for the repairs. Actually no repairs were carried out.

Mr. M. A. da Silva, for the defence, said that defendant was on bail of $500. In view of the fact that he voluntarily surrendered himself to the Police, he would apply for a reduction in bail. He understood that the Police were asking for two weeks' remand, as Mr. Henry Gray, manager of the Concrete Products was at present in Shanghai.

Replying to the magistrate, Insp. Murphy said he thought Mr. Gray's evidence was necessary.

Hodge stated he lived in Hongkong since 1916 and was residing at Cameron Road with his family and two children.

His Worship reduced bail to $200 in cash or a surety to be approved by the Court, and ordered a remand for one week.

Leonardo da Vinci's world famous painting La Gioconda in the Louvre Gallery is declared to be only a copy while the original canvas is said to be in the possession of an art dealer in Algiers, according to a sensational report from London appearing in yesterday's Paris papers. The report is based on a description furnished to a London paper by an individual named Jack Dean of the events which allegedly took place after the painting was stolen in 1911 from the Louvre to which it only returned eight years later.
